Stares, Waves Greet Senators In East Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Stares and friendly waves from Soviet soldiers and German citizens greeted a U.S. congressional group touring behind the Communist wall in East Berlin Sunday.

Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Howard Cannon, D-Nev., were among half a hundred U.S. Air Force Reserve officers from Capitol Hill on the two-hour tour behind the Iron Curtain.

They were easily recognized as Americans, for all wore uniforms and rode two green U.S. Army buses. A carload of U.S. newsmen followed. The two senators are one-star generals.

Here and there pedestrians and motorists along the drab streets waved to the Americans. Some hesitated and looked around first—almost as if to make sure no one was watching.

Three times the buses passed the ruins where Soviet tanks have been bivouacked for more than a month. They stopped briefly the last time. Goldwater said that from his vantage point in the front seat of the bus, "I could see the gun muzzles" of the tanks.

A group of off-duty Soviet soldiers on the street spotted the buses, broke into smiles and exchanges waves.

Except for the scattered waves, Goldwater found the divided city's Communist sector "not only depressing but grim."

White Oilman Slugs Editor

MCCOMB, Miss. (AP)—Editor John Oliver Emmerich of the McComb Enterprise-Journal was slugged Sunday in the wake of racial disturbances here.

Police said Milton J. Stayton, 43, a white oilman, was charged with assault and battery. Bond was set at $1,000.

Police Chief George Guy said Stayton admitted striking the editor in anger over racial disturbances in McComb.

Stayton, married and the father of several children, was a former east Texas oilman who has been living in McComb about 18 months.

Associates said Emmerich stopped at a drug store for a cup of coffee when a white man approached and asked him whether he was responsible for bringing in out-of-state photographers and newsmen for coverage of racial violence last week. Five New Orleans Negroes who came to McComb to test segregated terminal facilities, and four visiting newsmen were beaten by white men.

Emmerich replied that he had only shown visiting newsmen professional courtesy.

The white man struck Emmerich on the left arm and hit him over an eye. Emmerich fell, fending off additional blows. Several stitches were taken to close the wound over his eye.

The state patrol said the plane went down into a field just west of the Ohio Turnpike after it apparently slammed into some high tension lines over the tollroad.

Ex-Gen. Walker Says He'll Wage Drive "On Own"

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker said Sunday he will not be "the principal spokesman for any organization," including the John Birch Society.

Walker, a key figure in the controversy over how much freedom military men should have to speak out against communism, quit the Army a month ago and said he would give up his retirement rights.

Interviewed on the ABC-TV program, "Issues and Answers," Walker, asked if he intended to carry out his anti-Communist program through any organization such as the John Birch Society, replied: "I will not be affiliated with anyone in particular. I intend to be myself and stay unassociated with any organization or any individual except the necessary personal staff to carry on my correspondence and my assistance in my program and objectives. I am not going to be the principal spokesman for anybody except Edwin A. Walker."

Walker was removed from command of the 24th Division in Germany last May after an investigation of complaints about an information program he sponsored among his troops. He later was ordered to a staff assignment at Army Pacific headquarters.

Among other things, Walker was accused of having described as "definitely pink" such well-known Americans as former President Harry S. Truman, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and former Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Walker's so-called "Pro-Blue" program—the word "blue" symbolic of loyalty—included lectures on communism, American citizenship, religion, and methods of Communist infiltration.

Elisabethville Airport Clash Raises Tension

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—Katangans, embittered by an airport clash with Indian troops of the U.N. Congo Command, fired on United Nations planes and helicopters Sunday.

Civilians in this secessionist provincial capital, fearing a return of open warfare, kept under cover.

Heavy mortar fire was heard in the area of the airport, though both U.N. and Katanga authorities denied they were responsible for this latest break in the cease-fire proclaimed Sept. 21.

Far to the north, a U.N. spokesman said, automatic bursts from a Katanga gendarmerie strong point near Nyunzu hit one plane on a routine flight and wounded an Irish U.N. officer, Capt. Roger Morley.

Each side accused the other of making off with some of its men.

Messages whipped between U.N. offices in Elisabethville, Leopoldville and New York concerning the tense situation.

A spokesman in Leopoldville said the United Nations has demanded that all Katanga troops be confined to barracks and "we are discussing what further means we can use to bring the situation under control."

The new flareup came after a night of sporadic shooting set off by a brush between the Indian troops and President Moise Tshombe's national police at the Elisabethville airport.

Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba declared the U.N. troops fired on the Katangans while the latter were checking passes. He said 20 gendarmes were missing and believed killed.

George Ivan Smith, acting U.N. civilian chief here who himself was roughed up by a group of Katanga military men last Wednesday, denied it. He blamed "drunken and disorderly behavior" by the gendarmes.

The U.N. story was that the fighting began after one of the Katangans tried to interfere with a woman at the airport.

Smith told newsmen no one was killed. He reported the Indians captured 46 gendarmes and that all were later returned to Katanga authorities. Two of these appeared slightly wounded.

U.N. spokesman Abdul Atif Sucair said 10 U.N. military men and an Italian Red Cross worker who was driving a truck loaded with Baluga refugees disappeared after being stopped in the night by Katanga police. Sucair added that the Katanga government promised their quick release.

The U.N. men were 7 Swedes, 2 Norwegians and 1 Argentine.

Izvestia Raps JFK's Berlin Access Idea

MOSCOW (AP) — The government newspaper Izvestia declared Sunday night President Kennedy's idea of putting routes to West Berlin under international control is "doomed to failure."

Kennedy made the suggestion in an interview last week with Alcega Adzubei, editor of Izvestia. Walter Ulbricht, Communist party chief of East Germany, was first to reject the idea in a speech published Saturday.

Izvestia saw in the plan an attempt to help West German "revenge seekers" get control of the communications. It declared East Germany would use its "sacred right" to regulate all land, water and air routes into isolated West Berlin.

Izvestia also accused Kennedy of telling a "cock and bull story" in saying the Soviet Union wants to communize the world. Of all Kennedy's remarks, this seemed to have stung the Kremlin most.

Declaring the Soviet Union always has been against the export of revolution, Izvestia demanded: "How can a government leader repeat this cock and bull story, which is nearly 44 years old?"

In an editorial that undoubtedly represents the government's carefully thought-out response to Kennedy, Izvestia said the only thing the Soviet Union wants to do is to promote freedom.

"But when the United States and her partners give freedom to the West German revenge seekers and seek to prolong for an indefinite time the state of alarm and confusion in the center of Europe; flood West Germany and West Berlin with their troops and weapons—this is called 'allowing other countries to live as they like,' it added.

"Who is rushing to South Vietnam in order to deprive the people of the rights of free choice of what system of administration they want—Soviet generals and diplomats?"

"So who is interfering in the affairs of other countries? The answer to this question is well known on all continents of the globe. This is being done by the United States of America."

"We are compelled to reiterate that neither the United States nor anybody else will play the role of an arbiter in the affairs of nations that have rid themselves of capitalism."

Izvestia specifically mentioned Cuba in this connection.

Names of the crewmen were withheld pending notification of relatives.

Dominican Republic Air Force Accepts Rebels' Resignation

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican air force Sunday accepted the resignation of rebellious officers who demanded the removal of Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria as chief of the armed forces. They charged he was leading the nation toward military dictatorship.

The air force action appeared to have eliminated at least temporarily another source of trouble in the explosive Dominican crisis, now entering its third week with no sign of easing.

Some of the rebellious officers insisted, however, that most officers in the air force support their demands. The air force, with its own ground units as well as planes, is a potent force, having driven the last of the Trujillos from the country. Rodriguez Echavarria helped get rid of the Trujillos but now other officers are suspicious of him, although he too is of the air force.

Rodriguez Echavarria, talking briefly with reporters, charged in turn that the recalcitrant officers wanted the military to take over the government and he refused.

Rodriguez Echavarria conferred with President Joaquin Balaguer after the pilots sent in their resignations Saturday with a letter saying they believed the armed forces chief "has betrayed the patriotic ideals and thirst for liberty of our people."

Balaguer had supported a plan by the armed forces under which they would assume virtual control over Dominican affairs during the crisis.

Anti-Trujillo political parties rejected the plan as an attempt to swing the island republic back to a dictatorship. Instead, they are pressing a general strike in an attempt to force out Balaguer and install a provisional coalition government.

The strike entered its sixth day.

Drug Industry Team To Fight Curb Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The drug-manufacturing industry is sending a picked team of witnesses to fight a bill proposing broad new federal controls over the manufacture, sale and patenting of prescription medicines.

The group, including scientists, U.S. manufacturer Vannevar Bush, Dean Eugene V. Rostow of Yale University Law School and officials of various drug houses, will testify Thursday and Friday before the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee. Bush is board chairman of Merck & Co., Rahway, N.J.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., author of the controversial drug bill, heads the subcommittee and will preside at the hearings.

Soviet Again Warns West On A-Testing

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union Sunday night repeated its warning that it will hold new nuclear tests if the West continues underground testing.

A government statement distributed by Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said that the step would be taken in the interests of Russian security.

It said "one cannot help being alerted" by the American statement at the Geneva nuclear test ban talks last week that U.S. underground testing may continue.

"The Soviet government declares firmly that if the Western powers continue testing their nuclear weapons — underground included — in order to safeguard its security, the U.S.S.R. will be compelled to hold such nuclear weapons tests as it deems necessary for consolidation of its defense capacity," the statement said.

Tass said the Soviet government "notes with satisfaction" that the Russian proposals for an unscheduled moratorium on testing "have been given their due by the peoples of the world."

It said the United States and Britain are expected to receive the proposals "positively."

President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan both have recently "admitted that national means of nuclear explosion detection are perfectly sufficient" to provide safeguards for checking tests in the atmosphere, Tass said.

This gives grounds for an early agreement at Geneva, the statement added.

Underground Nuclear Blast Set Off By U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States conducted a nuclear test of low yield underground Sunday, the Atomic Energy Commission announced.

Word of the test came in this terse notice:

"The Atomic Energy Commission announced today that a nuclear test of low yield was conducted underground today at the commission's Nevada test site."

News of the latest U. S. test came as the Soviet Union warned that it will resume testing nuclear weapons if the West continues to test them, even underground.

The Russians said that continued Western tests, whether in the atmosphere or underground, will force the Soviet Union to carry out "such tests of nuclear weapons it considers necessary for the consolidation of its defense capacity," an official announcement said.

A State Department spokesman, who had been told of the Soviet warning, said:

"The United States government has no indication that the U.S.S.R. has stopped testing since it unilaterally broke the moratorium against nuclear tests. Our announced policy is to test and talk."

The announcement that Sunday's underground test by the United States was in the low yield would indicate it had a strength of equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT. The first atomic bomb dropped on Japan during World War II had such a force.

Steam Tests Will Follow Underground Atom Shot

WASHINGTON (AP)—A nuclear blast to be touched off deep underground in New Mexico next Sunday may provide enough trapped heat to operate a steam plant for months, an Atomic Energy Commission official said Sunday.

John Kelly, specialist for the AEC's Project Gnome, said the underground shot near Carlsbad, N.M., will be in a formation of 90 per cent pure salt. He estimated it will create a cavity 110 feet in diameter containing a pool of 6,000 tons of melted salt, about 35 feet deep.

Interviewed on an MBS radio program — "Reporter's Roundup" — Kelly said that after heating the rocks in terms of a million degrees, the blast temperatures should drop to the 1,440 degree of molten salt and remain at that level for weeks or months.

The plan is to intercept this heat by injecting water, through holes already drilled, into the ground near the blast site, to produce steam.

The scientists will experiment in the control of the production and flow of the steam to the surface, and will record its quality, pressures, and flow rates.

The project also will provide technical information on the feasibility of recovering commercially or scientifically valuable isotopes produced by such explosions, and will test design principles for nuclear explosive devices intended for peaceful purposes.

The nuclear device will be exploded at the far end of a 1,116-foot-long self-sealing tunnel at the base of a shaft extending 1,200 feet underground.

Reds Resume Construction On Barriers

U.S. Troops Erect Sandbag Pillboxes At Crossing Point

BERLIN (AP) — American troops dug in at a crossing point at the Communist wall Sunday night and the United States protested to the Russians as East German labor gangs suddenly resumed heavy construction on the Red barriers dividing the city.

Thirty U.S. infantrymen in battle dress wheeled up to the tense Friedrichstrasse crossing point — the only one left for non-Germans — just a few yards opposite hundreds of armed East German soldiers and militiamen toiling to narrow one of the few gaps left in the wall erected last Aug. 13.

An American spokesman announced that Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, U.S. commandant in Berlin, protested to the Soviet commandant in East Berlin that new tank barriers along the Communist wall are illegal.

Brandenburg Gate Walled Up

Two Sunday nights ago, the Reds suddenly moved in work brigades and hundreds of troops to wall up the famous Brandenburg Gate and install massive tank barriers along several miles of the already-sealed border.

Watson's message to Soviet Col. Andrei I. Solov'yev also demanded "assurances that there would be no interference to Allied and civilian traffic" between the American sector of the divided city and Red-ruled East Berlin.

The message was delivered to Soviet headquarters in East Berlin by a member of the U.S. mission here.

The Americans erected sandbag pillboxes on both sidewalks of Friedrichstrasse and set up machine guns behind them. A bazooka, also protected by sandbags, was put up behind the U.S. "Checkpoint Charlie" hut, about eight yards from the border.

Traffic Still Moving

Traffic continued to move at Friedrichstrasse. The only gateway remaining for non-Germans to cross between East and West Berlin.

But it was diverted sharply to one side at the line, as Red brigades raised a concrete wall across the pavement.

West Berlin police said the Communists apparently planned to leave open a narrow passage-way that would funnel all traffic past their customs house, which is slightly to one side of Friedrichstrasse. They quoted East German police as saying the Friedrichstrasse crossing would remain open.

The 30 Americans in battle dress apparently were rushed to the border as a show of Allied strength to the hundreds of armed helmeted East German troops facing West Berlin.

Man Survives 200-Foot Leap From Bridge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A 20-year-old Oakland man survived a 200-foot leap from the Golden Gate Bridge Sunday, the highway patrol said.

Francis Kennedy jumped from the north end of the structure and landed on the ground, police said. He was described in critical condition with major injuries at Marin County General Hospital.

Kennedy asked a taxi driver to let him out on the bridge, where he said he was to meet a friend. He vaulted over the railing after spotting a patrol car, police said.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican air force Sunday accepted the resignation of rebellious officers who demanded the removal of Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria as chief of the armed forces. They charged he was leading the nation toward military dictatorship.

The air force action appeared to have eliminated at least temporarily another source of trouble in the explosive Dominican crisis, now entering its third week with no sign of easing.

Some of the rebellious officers insisted, however, that most officers in the air force support their demands. The air force, with its own ground units as well as planes, is a potent force, having driven the last of the Trujillos from the country. Rodriguez Echavarria helped get rid of the Trujillos but now other officers are suspicious of him, although he too is of the air force.

Rodriguez Echavarria, talking briefly with reporters, charged in turn that the recalcitrant officers wanted the military to take over the government and he refused.

Rodriguez Echavarria conferred with President Joaquin Balaguer after the pilots sent in their resignations Saturday with a letter saying they believed the armed forces chief "has betrayed the patriotic ideals and thirst for liberty of our people."

Balaguer had supported a plan by the armed forces under which they would assume virtual control over Dominican affairs during the crisis.

Anti-Trujillo political parties rejected the plan as an attempt to swing the island republic back to a dictatorship. Instead, they are pressing a general strike in an attempt to force out Balaguer and install a provisional coalition government.

The strike entered its sixth day.

Drug Industry Team To Fight Curb Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The drug-manufacturing industry is sending a picked team of witnesses to fight a bill proposing broad new federal controls over the manufacture, sale and patenting of prescription medicines.

The group, including scientists, a manufacturer, Vanevar Bush, Dean Eugene V. Rostow of Yale University Law School and officials of various drug houses, will testify Thursday and Friday before the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee. Bush is board chairman of Merck & Co., Rahway, N.J.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., author of the controversial drug bill, heads the subcommittee and will preside at the hearings.

Steam Tests Will Follow Underground Atom Shot

WASHINGTON (AP)—A nuclear blast to be touched off deep underground in New Mexico next Sunday may provide enough trapped heat to operate a steam plant for months, an Atomic Energy Commission official said Sunday.

John Kelly, specialist for the AEC's Project Gnome, said the underground shot near Carlsbad, N.M., will be in a formation of 90 per cent pure salt. He estimated it will create a cavity 110 feet in diameter containing a pool of 6,000 tons of melted salt, about 35 feet deep.

Soviet Again Warns West On A-Testing

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union Sunday night repeated its warning that it will hold new nuclear tests if the West continues underground testing.

A government statement distributed by Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said that the step would be taken in the interests of Russian security.

It said "one cannot help being alerted" by the American statement at the Geneva nuclear test ban talks last week that U.S. underground testing may continue.

"The Soviet government declares firmly that if the Western powers continue testing their nuclear weapons — underground included — in order to safeguard its security, the U.S.S.R. will be compelled to hold such nuclear weapons tests as it deems necessary for consolidation of its defense capacity," the statement said.

Tass said the Soviet government "notes with satisfaction" that the Russian proposals for an unscheduled moratorium on testing "have been given their due by the peoples of the world."

It said the United States and Britain are expected to receive the proposals "positively."

President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan both have recently "admitted that national means of nuclear explosion detection are perfectly sufficient" to provide safeguards for checking tests in the atmosphere, Tass said.

This gives grounds for an early agreement at Geneva, the statement added.

Underground Nuclear Blast Set Off By U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States conducted a nuclear test of low yield underground Sunday, the Atomic Energy Commission announced.

Word of the test came in this terse notice:

"The Atomic Energy Commission announced today that a nuclear test of low yield was conducted underground today at the commission's Nevada test site."

News of the latest U. S. test came as the Soviet Union warned that it will resume testing nuclear weapons if the West continues to test them, even underground.

The Russians said that continued Western tests, whether in the atmosphere or underground, will force the Soviet Union to carry out "such tests of nuclear weapons it considers necessary for the consolidation of its defense capacity," an official announcement said.

A State Department spokesman, who had been told of the Soviet warning, said:

"The United States government has no indication that the U.S.S.R. has stopped testing since it unilaterally broke the moratorium against nuclear tests. Our announced policy is to test and talk."

The announcement that Sunday's underground test by the United States was in the low yield would indicate it had a strength of equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT. The first atomic bomb dropped on Japan during World War II had such a force.

Reds Resume Construction On Barriers

U.S. Troops Erect Sandbag Pillboxes At Crossing Point

BERLIN (AP) — American troops dug in at a crossing point at the Communist wall Sunday night and the United States protested to the Russians as East German labor gangs suddenly resumed heavy construction on the Red barriers dividing the city.

Thirty U.S. infantrymen in battle dress wheeled up to the tense Friedrichstrasse crossing point — the only one left for non-Germans — just a few yards opposite hundreds of armed East German soldiers and militiamen toiling to narrow one of the few gaps left in the wall erected last Aug. 13.

An American spokesman announced that Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, U.S. commandant in Berlin, protested to the Soviet commandant in East Berlin that new tank barriers along the Communist wall are illegal.

Brandenburg Gate Walked Up

Two Sunday nights ago, the Reds suddenly moved in work brigades and hundreds of troops to wall up the famous Brandenburg Gate and install massive tank barriers along several miles of the already-sealed border.

Watson's message to Soviet Col. Andrei I. Solovoyev also demanded "assurances that there would be no interference to Allied and civilian traffic" between the American sector of the divided city and Red-ruled East Berlin.

The message was delivered to Soviet headquarters in East Berlin by a member of the U.S. mission here.

The Americans erected sandbag pillboxes on both sidewalks of Friedrichstrasse and set up machine guns behind them. A bazooka, also protected by sandbags, was put up behind the U.S. "Checkpoint Charlie" hut, about eight yards from the border.

Traffic Still Moving

Traffic continued to move at Friedrichstrasse. The only gateway remaining for non-Germans to cross between East and West Berlin.

But it was diverted sharply to one side at the line, as Red brigades raised a concrete wall across the pavement.

West Berlin police said the Communists apparently planned to leave open a narrow passage-way that would funnel all traffic past their customs house, which is slightly to one side of Friedrichstrasse. They quoted East German police as saying the Friedrichstrasse crossing would remain open.

The 30 Americans in battle dress apparently were rushed to the border as a show of Allied strength to the hundreds of armed helmeted East German troops facing West Berlin.

Man Survives 200-Foot Leap From Bridge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A 20-year-old Oakland man survived a 200-foot leap from the Golden Gate Bridge Sunday, the highway patrol said.

Francis Kennedy jumped from the north end of the structure and landed on the ground, police said. He was described in critical condition with major injuries at Marin County General Hospital.

Kennedy asked a taxi driver to let him out on the bridge, where he said he was to meet a friend. He vaulted over the railing after spotting a patrol car, police said.

Four Of 24 Sit-In Demonstrators Free Under Bail Pending Grand Jury Action

By The Associated Press

Four of 24 sit-in demonstrators arrested throughout the state Saturday received a preliminary hearing in Baltimore Sunday and bail was set at $100 each pending action by the grand jury.

The four, arrested at Hooper's Restaurant in downtown Baltimore and charged with trespass, were Carolyn E. Waldman, 19, white, New York; John P. Harper, 19, white, Washington, D.C.; Edward L. Shiller, 19, white, Roslyn Heights, N.Y.; and Dion T. Diamond, 20, Negro, Petersburg, Va.

Bail was posted and the demonstrators were released after what was reportedly the first hearing of its kind ever held in the area. Defendants had been following a practice of waiving preliminary proceedings in favor of jury trials.

Judge Bail T. Thomas, who presided over Sunday's hearing in the Central District of the Municipality, denied a dismissal motion filed on the ground that the arrests had been unconstitutional.

The judge gave no reason for not having tried the case himself. Should the grand jury indict, jury trials would follow.

The hearing came in the wake of Saturday's day-long demonstrations, which involved some 400 out-of-state students, local residents and ministers. They made a massive assault on racially segregated service policies in area restaurants, most of which experienced picketing only.

Seven arrests occurred in Baltimore, 16 in Annapolis and 2 in nearby Parole. Anne Arundel County. One of those arrested in Annapolis was a restaurant owner charged with assault and disorderly conduct after a tussle with a demonstrator who was similarly charged. Authorities charged all the other integrationists with trespass.

Three other persons arrested in Baltimore, where 88 restaurants became targets for demonstrations, waived preliminary hearing Sunday and posted $100 bail each pending grand jury action.

The demonstrators, who appeared before Judge Albert H. Blum in the Northwest District of the Municipal Court, were Blyden Brown Jackson Jr., Walter Henderson and Carlton E. Moss. All are 25-year-old Negroes from New Haven, Conn. They said they were part time students at Yale University. The three, among some 350 persons who demonstrated in Baltimore, underwent arrest at the Five Mile House in the northwest section of the city.

Two 21-year-old Negroes were arrested late Saturday night at the Open Gate restaurant in Parole. They were Miss Prathia L. Hall, a student from Philadelphia and Miss Zenobia M. Fenrick, an Annapolis school teacher. Anne Arundel County Police released them after the posting of $54 collateral each.

Milton Leroy Henkel, operator of Henkel's Steak House and Restaurant in Annapolis, was charged with assault and battery and disorderly conduct late Saturday night. Annapolis city police placed the same charges against Michael W. Vozick, 24, of Baltimore, a graduate student at the Johns Hopkins University.

Officers Sam Cyrus and Curtis Strength, who filed the charges, said that Vozick had hit Henkel in the face and that the restaurant owner had rapped the student over the head with the nozzle of a garden hose which Henkel had been using to wet demonstrators.

Strength said the restaurant owner turned the hose on four police officers who followed some 75 demonstrators to the scene. Students had been watered down with a hose there earlier in the day.

Idea Of Berlin U.N. Office Good One, Rusk Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk agreed Sunday that establishment of some major United Nations offices in West Berlin would be a good idea. But he opposed shifting the main headquarters from New York.

Suggestions that the beleaguered former capital of Germany be made a major U.N. seat as part of an East-West settlement have been advanced by several sources, including some Soviet ones.

Appearing on a taped TV interview program, Rusk was asked what he thought of putting U.N. installations into West Berlin "as a guarantee of free access."

"I think all of us who are in a position to do something about and think about West Berlin and Berlin ought to be sympathetic to the idea of establishing activities there which would lend significance to that city," he replied. "I think there would be very great advantages from many points of view if certain of the agencies of the United Nations could be located in West Berlin. If you refer to moving this mammoth headquarters that is now in New York I would not think that would be such a good idea."

Four Persons Killed In Traffic Accidents

BALTIMORE (AP)—Three men and one woman died in three separate highway accidents in the Baltimore area during the week-end.

Paul Ben Jr. and Miss Portica Thomas, both of Baltimore, died early Sunday after the car in which they had been passengers slammed into a light pole in the southern section of the city.

The victims were pronounced dead on arrival at South Baltimore General Hospital, which admitted the driver, James McKenzie, also of Baltimore. His condition was reported to be improving.

Army Capt. John K. Dailey, 25, stationed at Ft. Meade, died Friday night after having been thrown from his car on the Baltimore - Washington Expressway.

James C. Cotton, 57, of Baltimore, was struck and killed by a taxicab in the city the same night.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Navy has been urged by Gov. Tawes to award a contract to the Martin-Marietta Co. near Baltimore for modification of the P-5M aircraft originally built by the firm.

Martin-Marietta is one of the bidders on the modification of the patrol craft, on which the Navy is expected to let contracts soon.

In a telegram to Secretary of the Navy John B. Connally Jr., Saturday, Tawes said the firm has 3,000 idle workers with skills to handle the project. He said the contract would add about 500 jobs.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The state took in some $150,547,619 during the first 4 months of the current fiscal year, a 12 per cent increase over the same period last year. Comptroller Louis Goldstein reported over the week-end.

The figure represents 30 per cent of the $512,173,975 income predicted for the year. Increased income tax revenue, more Federal aid and wider ranging state taxes contributed to the gains in collections.

General fund revenues, those which are not earmarked for specific purposes and go into the special fund, came to $68,321,067. Revenues from the sales tax now operating on a lower tax base of 25 cents and including restaurant meals over $1 showed large gains.

Maryland was listed 18th in full-time students and 13th in overall enrollment.

State Dept. Mum On Thurmond's 4-Arm Charge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department Sunday greeted with silence Sen. Strom Thurmond's statement that he had been told the department "has prepared a paper for the turning over of our nuclear weapons to the United Nations."

A department spokesman said there would be no reply. White House officials were not immediately available for comment on Thurmond's speech Saturday night to an applauding audience at an Arkansas American Legion conference in Little Rock.

The South Carolina senator called for a clean-up in the State Department. He also assailed the memorandum to the department by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., warning against involvement by military leaders in political affairs.

Thurmond Sunday refused to elaborate on this statement about the State Department paper, which he mentioned only briefly in his speech.

"I have been informed such a paper exists," he said Sunday. "I am not going to say whether I have seen this paper myself or not. I am not going to say anything further on the subject."

Police believe the attack occurred during a hold-up of Davis's store.

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The clean-cut young man paced back and forth across the rectory floor at the church where he had been talking to the priest about getting married.

In the corner of the room sat a part-time secretary counting the Sunday collection from the morning Masses. The priest had gone upstairs.

The young man picked up a bundle of cash and said "This would be enough for a fine honeymoon."

The secretary, Rose Maroney, being nice and making conversation, said "It sure would." With that he left, and so did the money.

Police were looking for a dark haired man, about 21 years old, dressed in a dark suit, who had made off with the $1,400.

Hundreds Perish In East Africa Floods

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Devastating floods, following on the heels of drought and famine, Sunday covered hundreds of square miles of East Africa. Officials report the death toll is in the hundreds and could eventually reach the thousands.

The governments of Somalia, Kenya, Tanganyika and Uganda estimate that at least 2 million persons reside in the areas that will probably be the scene of widespread starvation, drownings, exposure and epidemics.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am against you, your column and all the sexy junk you peddle under the guise of advice. It was bad enough that you managed to get your trash into several hundred family newspapers but now I see you've written a best-seller. This means your ability to damage people is greater than ever.

I bought your book just to see how far you'd go and I was amazed. That chapter entitled "Teenagers and Sex" is shocking. You actually tell young people how to neck. What in the world is wrong with you that you would put out such dangerous information?

You are an evil influence on young people and I intend to write to every clergyman I know and ask them to write to you and set you straight. I'm also calling the book stores and asking them to take your book off their shelves.—AN AMERICAN MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Thank you for your letter. I sincerely hope you write to the clergymen. I've already had reactions from religious leaders of many faiths. This is what they had to say about the book and especially about the teen-age chapter: LUTHERAN: (Fargo, N. D.) "Wonderful common sense — exactly what our teen-agers need."—Rev. J. Q.

CATHOLIC: (South Bend, Ind.) "Simply terrific. So wise and witty and in language teen-agers understand."—Father T. H. University of Notre Dame.

METHODIST: (Ottawa, Kans.) "I want to give a copy of your book to every couple I marry."—Rev. C. P. K.

CHURCH OF LATTER-DAY SAINTS: (Salt Lake City) "You speak basic truths, Ann Landers. May you be blessed with continued strength and energy to do His work."—J. R.

EPISCOPAL: (Flint, Mich.) "I appreciate the good you are doing. You are perceptive, quick and adroit."—Rev. G. A. M.

JEWISH: (New Orleans) "Sensible, sound, to the point. This should be required reading for all teen-agers and their parents as well."—Rabbi J. F.

BAPTIST: (New York) "Your frank, down-to-earth counsel is like a breath of fresh air in a world suffocating from materialism. You are a preacher in your own right."—Rev. R. S. These, Mother, are a handful of letters selected at random. I've also had heartening support from physicians, psychiatrists, school teachers, social workers, parents and teen-agers.

To pretend that teen-agers don't have normal biological urges is realistic. It also suggests a poor memory.

Necking among teenagers is here to stay. Wise parents accept it as a part of growing up—and they keep it at home (and under control).

Teen-agers don't need any instructions from me on how to neck. The mail tells me they already know how. I do urge them, however, to use their heads and to keep the brakes on because the price for a moment's foolishness is likely to be too high.

It's tougher to be a teen-ager today than when I grew up and it was no picnic then. Kids today have more leisure, more money to spend, more distractions and more choices to make.

They need information, guidance, and above all, understanding. This column gives me a chance to help millions of teen-agers and I intend to hammer away using the same frank and positive language until my typewriter falls apart.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Secrets Of Charm

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

"Do I put my husband's name or mine first . . . or should I sign our Christmas cards Mr. and Mrs.?" anxiously writes a Memphis, Tenn. reader.

On Christmas cards, signatures such as "Peg" or "Bill" are used. Since a wife usually signs and addresses the cards, her name comes after his. Thus: "John and Mary Smith," rather than "Mary and John." "Mrs." or "Mr." is wrong.

"Mr. and Mrs. John Smith and Family" is another signature form that should not be used. It's much better to say, " . . . and love from us all. John and Mary." Or, if you wish to be more formal say, " . . . from all of us," or "and best wishes to all."

It is not at all necessary, but not, of course, incorrect to write a message on your Christmas card. Many find this is the only time to tell what has happened during the past year. They are the people who usually enjoy hearing all the latest happenings from their friends . . . with a few family pictures thrown in.

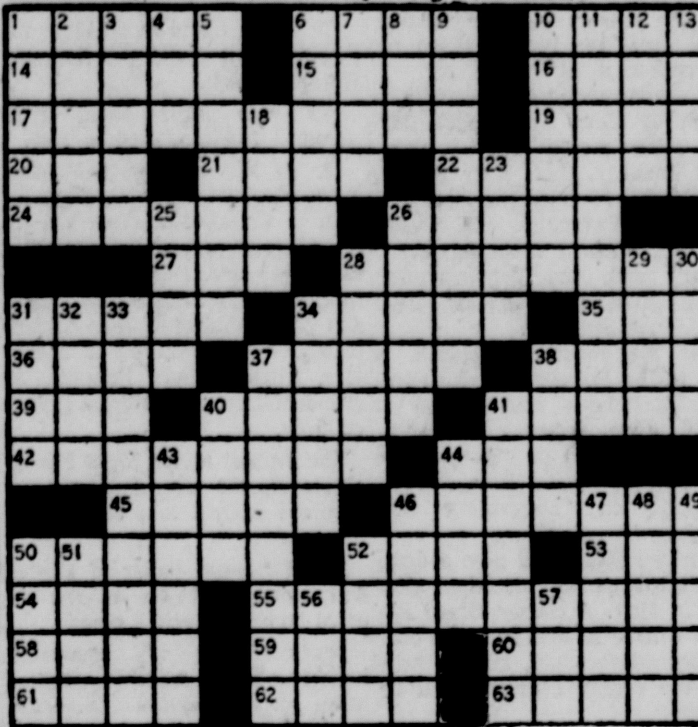

When Christmas cards are specially made up and names engraved, then the order given above is reversed and the holiday message ends with "Mary and John Smith." And many like to make it less formal to a beloved relative or intimate friends by crossing out the last name and writing above the names in ink, "Love" or "Affectionately."

The most formal cards are engraved by starting the message with "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith wish you a Merry Christmas . . . "Never use the abbreviation, "Xmas."

Mankind In Crisis Rises To Heights

In all the talk about fallout shelters and civil defense and the like, two assumptions are discussed again and again.

People seem to assume that a shelter owner will have to defend his hole-in-the-ground against those who do not build their own. They also assume that chaos and disorder will reign generally after a nuclear disaster happens.

Neither assumption gives much credit to human beings. Yet mankind has shown over and over again that it can and will rise to sublime heights when the occasion demands. And this fact challenges both assumptions.

The history of disasters is full of examples of men who risked their lives that others might live through them. Countless individuals have deliberately laid down their lives to save others. Recall the sinking of the Titanic; in that night of horror the number of men who stayed behind so that women and children could be saved far exceeded the number who tried to save their own lives at the expense of others.

There is no reason to believe that it would be otherwise in an atomic disaster. Some of the shelterless might attack the sheltered; most would not, and the number of persons who voluntarily gave up space in their own shelters that others might live would far exceed the number who would fend their neighbors off with a gun.

As for the notion that chaos would reign, it also underestimates the record written by civilized men. There would be a certain amount of looting and lawlessness, no doubt—in the areas directly affected by such a disaster. But other areas would remain relatively untouched. And from these areas would come, as soon as possible, forces to restore law and order.

It has always been thus. There is no reason that it would be different in the event of a nuclear disaster. To believe otherwise is to sell mankind far short of its true capabilities.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Angry Stockholders

I recently saw a photograph of myself in "The New York Times" giving the devil to a professional angry stockholder. According to the Anderson, South Carolina, "Mail":

"Stockholder meetings are always enlivened by the appearance of Lewis D. Gilbert, author of 'Dividends and Democracy' and other published works, who spends all of his time at annual company meetings. His family owns stock in over 600 companies! Gilbert is acid at meetings and stirs the wrath of many corporation executives."

Of course, a stockholder is entirely within his rights when he asks a question politely; if he is ill-mannered, he should be thrown out of the room. The assumption that a man may be rude because he owns a share of stock is nonsense. When a man is rude, he should be treated according to his manners. It is not necessary to tolerate bad manners. Gilbert could be useful if he chose to be.

That, it seems to me, is the issue. The officers of a corporation are not sacrosanct personalities but no one needs to accept abuse, interruption, impudence from anybody. Too often officers of corporations are advised by their lawyers and public relations counsel to accept any abuse from stockholders on the assumption that a few words at a meeting will quickly be forgotten.

This theory is all wrong unless the officers are afraid of questions or criticism. If they have done nothing wrong, they need not accept impudence from anyone. Even if they have erred, the discussion ought to be orderly and gentlemanly. There are those who make it their business to go from stockholders' meeting to stockholders' meeting for the fun of it. Busy men should not be subjected to that sort of nonsense and if they lack the courage to stand up and fight, they deserve what they get.

The fact of the matter is that the function of an industry is to make goods and profits. There was no question about profits in the 19th century but in the middle of the 20th century, industry finds itself managed by employees whose collars are slightly whiter than those of their colleagues.

These management-workers have come out of the supervisory and sales forces of a company and are too often altogether unrelated to ownership. Their attitude is identical to that of the worker. They seek fringe benefits rather than wages. Their fringe benefits often consist of stock options or pensions which grow increasingly more costly to industry. Often management develops tenure as the hourly worker does and having tenure, cares nothing about profits. He uses other people's money without recognizing that profits are the essential of industry and that it is not sound economics in the capitalist system for management to take the cream off the top—the cream that rightly belongs to the owner of the stock.

This situation arises from the fact that there is a startling shortage of able manpower in management. It is common practice in industry for a company to steal ability from other companies by offering special benefits for reputed capabilities. I say "reputed capabilities" because the reputation does not always go along with accomplishment. The assumption that a man can run a shop is meaningless unless that shop makes a profit. The only yardstick of ability is profit. If a foreman can earn a profit which his boss cannot earn, the foreman is a preferable person in management.

When we speak of our industry falling behind, what we actually mean is that the production is unprofitable, that the industry is not producing new and additional capital, that management is stuff-shirted but incompetent. Thus large enterprises, that look wonderful in reports, actually are failures and are sooner or later acquired by smarter entrepreneurs because they are unprofitable.

The word "growth" has moved into the industrial picture with the object of covering up failure to produce profits. Instead of a profit there is a growth. Over a period of time, unless the growth produces profits, the enterprise becomes stagnant. Growth literally means nothing unless the company that is built by acquisitions produces profits. Too much energy and capital goes into piling up bigness which is useless if it produces no profits but looks big.

All this such an inquiring stockholder as Lewis Gilbert can say without turning a stockholders' meeting into a shenanigan.

Britain Seen Adjusting To A New National Role

By Joseph Alsop

LONDON — Nothing is more extraordinary — and nothing is more difficult for a foreigner to judge correctly — than a great nation's self-adjustment to a new national role.

Yet this kind of adjustment, when it occurs, is a gigantic historical event that affects every world relationship. Consider, for example, the tacit decision of the French nation that the role of France in Europe, as defined by Richelieu, Louis XIV, and Napoleon, was no longer a practical and desirable role to play.

One cannot date this French national decision. The fact that it had been taken was concealed from almost everyone for a considerable period of time by the trumphy facade of Louis Napoleon's Second Empire. But in reality the decision had been taken. The preparations for a new and highly fruitful role were even carried on behind the Second Empire's false front. And this un-dateable French national decision was quite certainly one of the great events of the nineteenth century.

Maybe it is premature to say so, but all the signs suggest that this kind of national self-adjustment, this kind of abandonment of an old role and acceptance of a new one, is now going on here in Britain. Furthermore, this reporter, perhaps too daringly, would argue that the great increase of hope and vitality and confidence in the London air is to be explained by the fact that the deeply painful job of changing roles is already half-completed.

To a great many Englishmen, the improvement in the local atmosphere is not even perceptible. They are preoccupied with the Berlin crisis. Or they are worried about Kenya. Or they are concerned about the unsatisfactory performance of the British economy, which has led many people here to advocate entry into the European Common Market as a kind of disagreeable but curative national cold bath.

But the existence of these heavy and well-justified current anxieties does not change the fact that there is a tremendous change in the atmosphere of London. The gloom and defeatism that prevailed in the period after the setback at Suez are no longer to be found here. In the light of hindsight, Suez was not only an ending, as was seen at the time, but also was a turning point.

Suez was an ending because no action can sustain an imperial role except by force of arms. The decision of the Eden government to make this last attempt to sustain an imperial role has been bitterly attacked. But the motive was clear and understandable.

The greater Labor Foreign Secretary, Ernest Bevin, once told a party meeting that Britain must control Middle Eastern oil because the British workingman's breakfast depended on it. For this reason, Bevin's Laborite successor, Lord Morrison, asked the U. S. government to support a British landing in Southern Iran.

The Eden government merely dared to do what Morrison wanted to do, and for the same motives. The motives of the Eden government in fact deserve less criticism than the display of self righteousness which Suez evoked in Washington. But the attempt made at Suez was a failure, nonetheless; and it was immediately and abundantly clear that this was a last attempt to use force to sustain Britain's old role.

That leaves a curious puzzle concerning the successor government of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. The puzzle is whether this smiling, unreadable, sometimes rather melodramatic man who inherited the leadership after Suez, has been charting his course by subconscious instinct, or whether he recognized the hard

WASHINGTON — When Speaker Sam Rayburn's mortal illness first became public, Washington speculation turned to his possible successor. There was a rash of newspaper stories, some of them inspired, concerning the chances or lack of chance of Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts to succeed to the top position in the House of Representatives.

Doubts about McCormack could be traced back to the White House where McCormack was not popular although he is from Massachusetts. President Kennedy's state, and has long classified himself as a "liberal" Democrat.

Presidential intimates let it be known that Kennedy would prefer someone else, but at the same time declined to lead any "stop McCormack" movement. They were fearful that any such move would be interpreted among House Democrats as an unwarranted interference in the legislative branch of government.

Because of White House reluctance to lead the fight, there is now very little open opposition to McCormack as the next speaker. Nevertheless, a small band of House liberal Democrats keep trying to get one started.

They've proposed a number of capable House members to run against McCormack. The latest is Rep. Albert Rains, of Alabama, who is noted as an able parliamentarian. Rains would be able to attract a large bloc of southern Democratic votes if he should decide to make the race.

However, unless the White House changes its mind, McCormack will be the next speaker. Neither Rains, nor any other House leader, will make the run for the job without the promise of Kennedy's support.

Public Health Service Expects Another Outbreak Of Asian Flu

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The U. S. Public Health Service is worried about another serious epidemic of Asian flu. It has warned state and municipal health authorities to be on the lookout for another influenza year.

The winter of 1957-58 saw 86,000 deaths attributable to Asian flu and public health doctors don't want to see a repetition this year. With proper preventive measure and care, an epidemic can be prevented.

While the heavy flu outbreaks don't usually come until January and February, already there are some signs of local outbreaks. There has been increasing school absenteeism by children suffering from stomach ailments — probably linked to flu—in California and Oregon. The Public Health Service is also keeping an eye on Washington State, though school absenteeism is not as great there as in California and Oregon.

Asian flu usually strikes the West Coast first.

Public health officials see no cause for alarm if the American people are alerted and take care of themselves. Chief reason for the havoc caused by Asian flu in 1957-58 was that the public was not prepared. People suffering from chronic lung and heart ailments should be especially careful.

"Give 'Em Hell' Harry
Harry Truman, who has been deluged with requests to speak

this fall and winter, has picked one man he wants to support and one place he wants to speak in.

He wants to make sure Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, who has the same fighting qualities as HST, come back to the Senate. So he will be the feature speaker at a $100-a-plate dinner for Morse on Dec. 7.

Significantly he will invade the capital of the John Birchites and the 6th column frustrationists—Los Angeles.

It was in Los Angeles that President Kennedy took on the right-wing extremists and was picked by several thousand of those whom he had denounced for lacking faith in the United States.

Former President Truman is reported preparing a "Give 'Em Hell Harry" Fusillade for Dec. 7 to raise money for Morse's reelection.

Some people have forgotten that Truman is the President who had the guts to fire the most famed military man in recent American history—Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

He could have called MacArthur home for consultation, then quietly eased him out. He didn't. He met the issue head on with an abrupt dismissal because he considered it all-important to emphasize the constitutional role of civilian authority over the military in the United States.

The John Birchites have been claiming that the issue between MacArthur and Truman was MacArthur's desire to bomb beyond the 38th parallel. Their memories are faulty. The real issue was that MacArthur in Tokyo had been telling visiting Senators and Congressmen how to run the political strategy of the Far East, thereby undermining the strategy of his Commander-in-Chief in Washington.

The Kennedy Administration, faced with a similar situation in the case of Gen. Edwin Walker, merely transferred Walker to a pleasant post in Hawaii — the Army's softest assignment. The Army made no move to prosecute Walker for violation of the Hatch Act.

President Truman would have done it differently.

Sen. Morse Ribs Military

Sen. Wayne Morse was cross-

examining Gen. Tom White when the latter was Air Force Chief of Staff and was testifying before the Senate Disarmament Committee of which Morse is a member.

"I would like to be cynical, Senator," said Gen. White, referring to the detection of nuclear explosions. "I question whether the Russians would even discuss this thing if they weren't sure they could cheat."

"The General has suggested that we be cynical," said Morse. "General, I am so cynical that I make you look like an optimist."

"I am glad to hear that, sir," said Gen. White.

"I think the only people who are ahead of the American military leaders are the archeologists of a thousand years ago," said the Senator.

Red Hat For Washington

One result which may come from the visit of the Papal Secretary of State Cardinal Cicognani is the elevation of the Diocese of Washington to the level of a See headed by a Cardinal.

Every other major capital of the world—London, Paris, Madrid, Buenos Aires—rates a Cardinal. The capital of the United States, partly because of its Southern, Protestant population, hitherto has not so rated.

However, Archbishop Patrick O'Boyle of Washington is an old friend of the Papal Secretary of State and has followed Pope John's new leadership in encouraging cooperation between Catholics and Protestants. O'Boyle many times has said that Christians are misguided to allow their differences to separate them, and he has joined such interfaith groups as the Foundation for Religious Action in the Social and Civil Order, headed by an Episcopal clergyman, Dr. Charles Wesley Lowry.

Archbishop O'Boyle has also sent his young, articulate auxiliary bishop, Philip M. Hannan to grace many interfaith meetings. O'Boyle's position on Christian unity is far closer to the Vatican's than that of Cardinal Spellman's and it would not surprise church leaders if Pope John did not increase the College of Cardinals to an even 100 by presenting a red hat to Archbishop O'Boyle.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

At Agua Caliente, the lady walked up to the Daily Double window and presented her ticket. She was Mrs. Ottilia Alexander, a widow from San Diego. She didn't appear to be hysterical. She had just won the biggest daily double in history: $12,724.80. She counted it carefully, right down to the half dollar and three dimes.

A reporter said: "How did you come to pick Slick Trick and Rockliffe, madam?" She smiled. "Easy," she said. "The post positions are the same as the first two numbers of my home address." Well, each to his own system.

The smartest gambling man in the world, I believe, is John Scarne, a dark bomb with a short fuse. He is a good mathematician gone wrong. Mr. Scarne was in Havana the last time I saw him. He was standing outside a darkened gambling room which Fidel Castro has just closed.

Scarne came back to the United States to try a more notorious kind of gambling; writing books. He has written about card games, dice games, and now he has Scarne's Complete Guide to Gambling, which costs $10 on the chalk line. It covers everything from roulette to poker to horse racing to betting on the next hitter in a ball game.

I hope he makes a few bob on it. It runs to 714 pages, which may be a good hunch number. The thesis is that the average bettor cannot win over a long period. The odds are always shaded toward the house, or the book or the track. A short-term gambler can become lucky.

Horse racing has always been attractive to me. I have my own system, referred to by touts as Bishop's Slow Road To The Poorhouse. Scarne talks of systems, and says that none of them work because, in a race, anything untoward can upset the best of calculations: an unruly horse, a poor start, interference, poor jockey judgement, a horse's personal feelings.

The only system which might work is Martingale. This is also the oldest. The player starts with a $2 bet. If he loses, he doubles up. He keeps doubling until he wins and, even if the winner only pays even money, the gambler has all of his money back. There is one thing wrong with the system. To work it properly, the player should own the U. S. Mint.

If you lose fourteen bets in a row—which is fairly common in my league — your 15th bet is for $32,768, and so far, you have lost $65,534. And where would you place the bet?

The only players who drive the bookies daffy are women. They seldom play favorites, and they think a form chart is something to be found in a book of patterns. One woman at a track won $500 by counting the pigeons flying across the infield and then betting that post position.

Some bet the jockey, because he looks "cute." Another one likes the spirited manner in which one horse switches his tail. Others bet on the name of a horse which means something to the lady: "Secret Sin," "My Hero," "Adios My Pet," "Heart's Desire." A few eavesdrop at the track and will bet anything the man at the next table says because he looks masterful.

Scarne estimates that there are 10,000 female bookies in America. These, of course, are the smart ones. They take the bets of other women and drive brand new Cadillacs and have slinky furs and rich-looking gowns. Women who work for other bookies usually get 50 percent of the profit realized from the bets they phone in.

One waitress made so much money this way that she quit the restaurant and set up her own book. Another girl — a secretary to a rich man in New York — used to phone her boss's bets in. They sometimes amounted to thousands of dollars a day. The girl played smart. "I want 10 percent of whatever my boss loses to you," she said, "or I'll phone the bet elsewhere."

The bookie agreed. In one year, the boss lost $200,000, and the $75-a-week secretary took $20,000. "I'm no dope," she told the bookie. "You have to pay me." The bookie grinned. Later, he said: "I'm glad she's smart. She demands 10 percent of his losses, and she's entitled to 50 percent."

A big retired bookie told Scarne the truth about his operation. "My runners stole from me. My clerks and sheet writers doctored the run-down sheets for themselves. I cancelled thousands of dollars in bad debts. I had to pay a fortune to cops and politicians. I had to pay my runners 50 percent of my winnings."

"So when I retired, I had only five million in cash and some apartment houses and stocks."

Still think you can win? ...

Most Causes Of Ear Noises Can Be Corrected

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Ear noises are most annoying. They are described as sounds like escaping steam, the blowing of a whistle, ringing of a high pitched bell, or running or splashing water. Others tell of a roaring, buzzing, banging, or gurgling sound. The description often gives a clue to what is wrong.

Low pitched noises usually come from a disorder in that part of the ear which conducts sound to the nerve centers. This is the deep roaring, gurgling, or buzzing type of noise. It stems from the pressure of wax against the drum, infections of the middle ear, or blockage of a eustachian tube that runs from the back of the throat to the ear. Noises from these origins can be corrected, explaining why it is important to determine the cause.

A gurgling noise, for example, often comes from fluid in the middle ear cavity. Infection or allergy are the most common causes and the sounds disappear as soon as the drum is punctured.

Opening a blocked eustachian tube often helps, especially when the low pitched noise follows deep diving or plane trips. Wax against the drum also interferes with the conduction of sound. The physician can remove the material easily with a cerumen spoon or by flushing out the ear canal with lukewarm water.

High pitched hissing generally means a disturbance in the nerve centers of the ear. They are hard to control and most of the remedies aim at improving the circulation, to bring more life into the neurosensory mechanism.

Head noises referred to the ear are the most difficult to correct. They stem from high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, disease of the brain, or emotional or nervous factors. They are not always annoying and often stop spontaneously. If the cause cannot be corrected the individual must learn to live with them. Sedatives help at night and many tolerate the sounds so long as the radio plays in the background.

Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on ear noises if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Try And Stop Me

Nothing can stop a Hoosier newspaperman. Pete Henderson recalls the night he was working on the Crawfordsville, Ind., Review when a report came over the wire that the Titanic had struck an iceberg on its maiden voyage and sunk. Henderson needed a picture in a hurry, but all he could find was a cut of an old Lake Erie side-wheeler. He never had seen an ocean liner himself and figured that most of his readers were similarly ignorant. So he used the old cut on Page 1 with the caption "The Ill-Fated Titanic." The next day he was looking for a new job.

A champion prize fighter, after an exhibition bout in Winnipeg, was shown a photograph of himself that had appeared the day previous in a San Francisco paper.

"How did they manage that?" demanded the pug. "I ain't been in San Francisco for years."

Mankind In Crisis Rises To Heights

In all the talk about fallout shelters and civil defense and the like, two assumptions are discussed again and again.

People seem to assume that a shelter owner will have to defend his hole-in-the-ground against those who do not build their own. They also assume that chaos and disorder will reign generally after a nuclear disaster happens.

Neither assumption gives much credit to human beings. Yet mankind has shown over and over again that it can and will rise to sublime heights when the occasion demands. And this fact challenges both assumptions.

The history of disasters is full of examples of men who risked their lives that others might live through them. Countless individuals have deliberately laid down their lives to save others. Recall the sinking of the Titanic; in that night of horror the number of men who stayed behind so that women and children could be saved far exceeded the number who tried to save their own lives at the expense of others.

There is no reason to believe that it would be otherwise in an atomic disaster. Some of the shelterless might attack the sheltered; most would not, and the number of persons who voluntarily gave up space in their own shelters that others might live would far exceed the number who would fend their neighbors off with a gun.

As for the notion that chaos would reign, it also underestimates the record written by civilized men. There would be a certain amount of looting and lawlessness, no doubt—in the areas directly affected by such a disaster. But other areas would remain relatively untouched. And from these areas would come, as soon as possible, forces to restore law and order.

It has always been thus. There is no reason that it would be different in the event of a nuclear disaster. To believe otherwise is to sell mankind far short of its true capabilities.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Angry Stockholders

I recently saw a photograph of myself in "The New York Times" giving the devil to a professional angry stockholder. According to the Anderson, South Carolina, "Mail":

"Stockholder meetings are always enlivened by the appearance of Lewis D. Gilbert, author of 'Dividends and Democracy' and other published works, who spends all of his time at annual company meetings. His family owns stock in over 600 companies! Gilbert is acid at meetings and stirs the wrath of many corporation executives."

Of course, a stockholder is entirely within his rights when he asks a question politely; if he is ill-mannered, he should be thrown out of the room. The assumption that a man may be rude because he owns a share of stock is nonsense. When a man is rude, he should be treated according to his manners. It is not necessary to tolerate bad manners. Gilbert could be useful if he chose to be.

That, it seems to me, is the issue. The officers of a corporation are not sacrosanct personalities but no one needs to accept abuse, interruption, impudence from anybody. Too often officers of corporations are advised by their lawyers and public relations counsel to accept any abuse from stockholders on the assumption that a few words at a meeting will quickly be forgotten.

This theory is all wrong unless the officers are afraid of questions or criticism. If they have done nothing wrong, they need not accept impudence from anyone. Even if they have erred, the discussion ought to be orderly and gentlemanly. There are those who make it their business to go from stockholders' meeting to stockholders' meeting for the fun of it. Busy men should not be subjected to that sort of nonsense and if they lack the courage to stand up and fight, they deserve what they get.

The fact of the matter is that the function of an industry is to make goods and profits. There was no question about profits in the 19th century but in the middle of the 20th century, industry finds itself managed by employees whose collars are slightly whiter than those of their colleagues.

These management-workers have come out of the supervisory and sales forces of a company and are too often altogether unrelated to ownership. Their attitude is identical to that of the worker. They seek fringe benefits rather than wages. Their fringe benefits consist of stock options or pensions which grow increasingly more costly to industry. Often management develops tenure as the hourly worker does and having tenure, cares nothing about profits. He uses other people's money without recognizing that profits are the essential of industry and that it is not sound economics in the capitalist system for management to take the cream off the top—the cream that rightly belongs to the owner of the stock.

This situation arises from the fact that there is a startling shortage of able manpower in management. It is common practice in industry for a company to steal ability from other companies by offering special benefits for reputed capabilities. I say "reputed capabilities" because the reputation does not always go along with accomplishment. The assumption that a man can run a shop is meaningless unless that shop makes a profit. The only yardstick of ability is profit. If a foreman can earn a profit which his boss cannot earn, the foreman is a preferable person in management.

It was in Los Angeles that President Kennedy took on the right-wing extremists and was picked by several thousand of those whom he had denounced for lacking faith in the United States.

Former President Truman is reported preparing a "Give 'Em Hell Harry" Fusillade for Dec. 7 to raise money for Morse's reelection.

Some people have forgotten that Truman is the President who had the guts to fire the most famed military man in recent American history—Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

He could have called MacArthur home for consultation, then quietly eased him out. He didn't. He met the issue head on with an abrupt dismissal because he considered it all-important to emphasize the constitutional role of civilian authority over the military in the United States.

The John Birchites have been claiming that the issue between MacArthur and Truman was MacArthur's desire to bomb beyond the 38th parallel. Their memories are faulty. The real issue was that MacArthur in Tokyo had been telling visiting Senators and Congressmen how to run the political strategy of the Far East, thereby undermining the strategy of his Commander-in-Chief in Washington.

The Kennedy Administration, faced with a similar situation in the case of Gen. Edwin Walker, merely transferred Walker to a pleasant post in Hawaii — the Army's softest assignment. The Army made no move to prosecute Walker for violation of the Hatch Act.

President Truman would have done it differently.

Sen. Morse Ribs Military

Sen. Wayne Morse was cross-

examining Gen. Tom White when the latter was Air Force Chief of Staff and was testifying before the Senate Disarmament Committee of which Morse is a member.

"I would like to be cynical, Senator," said Gen. White, referring to the detection of nuclear explosions, "I question whether the Russians would even discuss this thing if they weren't sure they could cheat."

"The General has suggested that we be cynics," said Morse. "General, I am so cynical that I make you look like an optimist."

"I am glad to hear that, sir," said Gen. White.

"I think the only people who are ahead of the American military leaders are the archeologists of a thousand years ago," said the Senator.

Red Hat For Washington

One result which may come from the visit of the Papal Secretary of State Cardinal Cicognani is the elevation of the Diocese of Washington to the level of a See headed by a Cardinal.

Every other major capital of the world—London, Paris, Madrid, Buenos Aires—rates a Cardinal. The capital of the United States, partly because of its Southern, Protestant population, hitherto has not so rated.

However, Archbishop Patrick O'Boyle of Washington is an old friend of the Papal Secretary of State and has followed Pope John's new leadership in encouraging cooperation between Catholics and Protestants. O'Boyle many times has said that Christians are misguided to allow their differences to separate them, and he has joined such interfaith groups as the Foundation for Religious Action in the Social and Civil Order, headed by an Episcopal clergyman, Dr. Charles Wesley Lowry.

Archbishop O'Boyle has also sent his young, articulate auxiliary bishop, Philip M. Hannan to grace many interfaith meetings. O'Boyle's position on Christian unity is far closer to the Vatican's than that of Cardinal Spellman's and it would not surprise church leaders if Pope John did not increase the College of Cardinals to an even 100 by presenting a red hat to Archbishop O'Boyle.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

At Agua Caliente, the lady walked up to the Daily Double window and presented her ticket. She was Mrs. Ottillia Alexander, a widow from San Diego. She didn't appear to be hysterical. She had just won the biggest daily double in history: $12,724.80. She counted it carefully, right down to the half dollar and three dimes.

A reporter said: "How did you come to pick Slick Trick and Rocklite, madam?" She smiled, "Easy," she said. "The post positions are the same as the first two numbers of my home address." Well, each to his own system.

The smartest gambling man in the world, I believe, is John Scarne, a dark bomb with a short fuse. He is a good mathematician gone wrong. Mr. Scarne was in Havana the last time I saw him. He was standing outside a darkened gambling room which Fidel Castro has just closed.

Scarne came back to the United States to try a more notorious kind of gambling; writing books. He has written about card games, dice games, and now he has Scarne's Complete Guide to Gambling, which costs $10 on the chalk line. It covers everything from roulette to poker to horse racing to betting on the next hitter in a ball game.

I hope he makes a few bob on it. It runs to 714 pages, which may be a good hunch number. The thesis is that the average better cannot win over a long period. The odds are always shaded toward the house, or the book or the track. A short-term gambler can become lucky.

Horse racing has always been attractive to me. I have my own system, referred to by touts as Bishop's Slow Road To The Poorhouse. Scarne talks of systems, and says that none of them work because, in a race, anything untoward can upset the best of calculations: an unruly horse, a poor start, interference, poor jockey judgement, a horse's personal feelings.

The only system which might work is Martingale. This is also the oldest. The player starts with a $2 bet. If he loses, he doubles up. He keeps doubling until he wins and, even if the winner only pays even money, the gambler has all of his money back. There is one thing wrong with the system. To work it properly, the player should own the U. S. Mint.

If you lose fourteen bets in a row—which is fairly common in my league—your 15th bet is for $32,768 and, so far, you have lost $65,534. And where would you place the bet?

The only players who drive the bookies daffy are women. They seldom play favorites, and they think a form chart is something to be found in a book of patterns. One woman at a track won $500 by counting the pigeons flying across the infield and then betting that post position.

Some bet the jockey, because he looks "cute." Another one likes the spirited manner in which one horse switches his tail. Others bet on the name of a horse which means something to the lady: "Secret Sin," "My Hero," "Adios My Pet," "Heart's Desire." A few eavesdrop at the track and will bet anything the man at the next table says because he looks masterful.

Scarne estimates that there are 10,000 female bookies in America. These, of course, are the smart ones. They take the bets of other women and drive brand new Cadillacs and have slinky furs and rich-looking gowns. Women who work for other bookies usually get 50 percent of the profit realized from the bets they phone in.

One waitress made so much money this way that she quit the restaurant and set up her own book. Another girl—a secretary to a rich man in New York—used to phone her boss's bets in. They sometimes amounted to thousands of dollars a day. The girl played smart. "I want 10 percent of whatever my boss loses to you," she said, "or I'll phone the bet elsewhere."

The bookie agreed. In one year, the boss lost $200,000, and the $75-a-week secretary took $20,000. "I'm no dope," she told the bookie. "You have to pay me." The bookie grinned. Later, he said: "I'm glad she's smart. She demands 10 percent of his losses, and she's entitled to 50 percent."

A big retired bookie told Scarne the truth about his operation. "My runners stole from me. My clerks and sheet writers doctor-ed the run-down sheets for themselves. I cancelled thousands of dollars in bad debts. I had to pay a fortune to cops and politicians. I had to pay my runners 50 percent of my winnings."

"So when I retired, I had only five million in cash and some apartment houses and stocks." Still think you can win? . . . (Copyright 1961, King Features)

Try And Stop Me

Nothing can stop a Hoosier newspaperman. Pete Henderson recalls the night he was working on the Crawfordsville, Ind., Review when a report came over the wire that the Titanic had struck an iceberg on its maiden voyage and sunk. Henderson needed a picture in a hurry, but all he could find was a cut of an old Lake Erie side-wheeler. He never had seen an ocean liner himself and figured that most of his readers were similarly ignorant. So he used the old cut on Page 1 with the caption "The Ill-Fated Titanic." The next day he was looking for a new job.

Pattersons 10-1 Choice In Championship Bout With McNeeley

Canada Gets First Heavy Title Match

McNeeley Unbeaten, Listen And Westphal Open Doubleheader

By MURRAY ROSE

Associated Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (AP)—Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson opens his new twice-a-year fight program Monday night when he faces undefeated but lightly regarded Tom McNeeley of Arlington, Mass., in a 15-round title bout at Maple Leaf Gardens.

The 26-year-old New Yorker, trim and fast at 190 pounds, remained a 10-1 favorite Sunday to annihilate the crude, 24-year-old former Michigan State football tackle.

McNeeley, a 6-2, 200-pounder, will have the advantage at least in height, weight, and reach (79-71). When it comes to skill, power and experience, Patterson has everything going for him.

It will be a strange experience in one respect for the champion. He will be meeting someone other than Ingemar Johansson for the first time in nearly 2½ years.

Fight At Philadelphia

Canada's first world heavyweight title match will be the second half of a novel closed circuit television doubleheader. In the opener (10 p.m., EST) of the electronic double bill, Sonny Liston, the reinstated No. 1 contender from Philadelphia, will oppose 10-1 underdog Albert Westphal of Hamburg, Germany, at Philadelphia's Convention Hall.

The intriguing attraction for the fans in both arenas and the theater-TV viewers will be the comparison of the skills and styles of Patterson and Liston even though they both are fighting low-rated opponents. The 210-pound Liston will be making a fighting pitch for a title while the proud Patterson will be out to look like a champion.

Championship Sports Inc., is promoting both fights. Teleprompter, Inc., is handling the telecast to about 150 theaters and arenas and more than 50 community television antenna systems in the United States and Canada. There will be blackouts of the theater-TV around Toronto and Philadelphia.

First Bout At 10 P. M.

Fans in the Toronto and Philadelphia arenas will see the fight in the other city on four-sided movie screens. If the 10 p.m. EST Liston-Westphal fight ends quickly, as expected, the title fight will start around 10:30 p.m. (EST). If it goes the distance the championship contest will go on around 11 p.m. (EST).

There will be no radio broadcast of the title fight in the United States where the bulk of the theaters are located.

Al Bolan, general manager of Championship Sports Inc., looked for a crowd of 11,000 to 12,000 and a gate of between $150,000 to $200,000. Prices range from a few $5 general admissions to $50.

Patterson figures to collect about $300,000 and 40 per cent of the gate and 50 per cent of the ancillary rights. McNeeley, for his 20 per cent of the gate and TV, radio, movies, could receive in the neighborhood of $125,000.

Won All His Fights

McNeeley, a pro since July 17, 1958, has won all 23 of his fights, 18 of them by knockouts.

These fights headline a busy week in boxing that also includes a bout between Gene Fullmer and welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba Saturday night in Las Vegas for Fullmer's National Boxing Association midweight title, and a non-title match between partial light heavyweight champion Archie Moore and Canadian heavyweight champ Bob Cleroux Tuesday night.

Philadelphia Winner, 35-24

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The Philadelphia Eagles turned three pass interceptions into touchdowns and Tim Brown scored on a 66-yard punt return to defeat the Pittsburgh Steelers 35-24 Sunday in a National Football League game climaxed by a free-swinging donnybrook.

The win moved the Eagles into a first place tie in the Eastern Division with the New York Giants, who lost to Green Bay Sunday.

With less than a minute left, Pittsburgh defensive tackle Big Daddy Lipscomb poked Howard Keady whom he outweighs by 45 pounds and Steeler defenders Joe Krupa and Brady Keys were mixing in with a swarm of Eagle players near the midfield stripe.

Hunters Kill 388 Deer In Allegany First Day

Total Is 36 Less Than 1960; Benson's 172-Pounder Biggest

Three hundred and eighty-eight deer fell before hunter's guns in Allegany county Saturday on the opening day of Maryland's 7-day season, according to Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden.

The total was 36 less than last year's record opening day kill of 424 bucks.

The 388 killed and ninety-three of the hundred on the first day of the season were bagged by Allegany countians.

Garrett county's kill of 256 was surprisingly low compared to the 377 bagged on the first day of the season were bagged by Allegany countians.

The four checking stations in Allegany county reported kills in this county as follows: Maryland State Police barracks, LaVale, 115; Shipway's Inn, Green Ridge, 110; Hess' Service Station, Oldtown, 69; and Jake's Service Station, Westernport, 28. Sixty-six bucks killed in Allegany were checked at Washington county stations.

Harry L. Benson, 548 Fairmont Avenue, got the biggest deer on opening day, a 172-pounder with 10 points, at Black Oak Ridge, near Rawlins.

Game wardens estimated there were between 17,000 and 18,000 hunters in the woods Saturday. They were checked from 16 counties of Maryland and seven other states — Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Bill Harbaugh Fails To Shoot Deer But His Car Kills Two

William "Bill" Harbaugh, Kelly - Springfield employee and local National Guard Tank Company mess sergeant — hunting in a party with John Divico, DeSales "Bike" King and Ronnie Berger — scoured the Green Ridge forest all day Saturday without getting a deer on the opening day of the season.

While en route home, however, Harbaugh struck two large doe deer with his car and killed both simultaneously.

Divico, local reserve officer, was fortunate enough to down a buck weighing 169 pounds with nine points.

LeClerc Boots Five Goals But Chicago Loses

24-Yard Conversion Wins For Detroit

CHICAGO (UPI)—Roger LeClerc tied a National Football League record with five field goals Sunday, but a 24-yard conversion by Jim Martin with 23 seconds left to play pulled the Detroit Lions to a 16-15 victory over the Chicago Bears.

With the clock running out, Lion quarterback Earl Morrall led a desperation drive toward the Bear goal.

A 36-yard pass to Jim Gibbons put the ball on the five. Another pass failed, but then Morrall hit Terry Barr in the end zone to tie the score.

The Lions needed Martin's one-point to win. His first kick was good, but the Lions were called for holding. Martin tried again from the 24 and succeeded for the winning point.

LeClerc, who had clicked on only three out of 13 field goal attempts previously this season turned out to be the only scoring threat Chicago had before 47,394 fans.

He kicked a 12-yard field goal in the first quarter, one from 30 yards out in the second from 12 and 32 yards in the third, and a 15-yarder in the final quarter. His achievement tied the record set by Ernie Nevers of the Red Sox against Hartford on Nov. 28, 1926, and tied by Bob Waterfield of the Rams against Detroit Sept. 9, 1951.

Bills Turn Back Oakland, 26-21

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Buffalo Bills, led by some tremendous defensive work on the part of La Verne Torzoni, grounded a 26-21 victory over Oakland in the mud of Candlestick Park Sunday and avenged an earlier defeat by the Raiders.

The game was strictly a basement battle with Oakland sinking deeper into the American Football League Western Division cellar as its season record dropped to 2-10. Buffalo, now 6-7, remained anchored in the Eastern Division basement.

Cousy Is Missing But Celtics Win

CINCINNATI (UPI)—The Boston Celtics, minus backcourt star Bob Cousy, humbled the Cincinnati Royals, 119-96, Sunday night in a National Basketball Association game.

Robertson, who finished with 28 points, took game honors while Russell scored 23 points and Heinsohn 17. Five other Celtics hit double figures.

Injury, who suffered a knee injury in Chicago on Friday, did not make the trip.

Academy Welcomes Middies

Celebration Marks Victory Over Army

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Amid shouts of "go, go, four in a row," the 3,800-man brigade of the U. S. Naval Academy welcomed home Sunday the Navy football team, fresh from a 13-7 victory over Army.

The team had won Navy's third straight victory in the time-honored, inter-service rivalry, and judging from the shouts of some 5,000 persons jammed into the stadium, the Middies want to make victory over Army a tradition.

"We went into the game rated even—recordwise, teamwise and otherwise—but it didn't come out even," football captain John Hewitt told the crowd.

Football coach Wayne Hardin called the recent campaign, during which Navy rolled up a 7-3 record, "the greatest season Navy has ever had, when it started with nothing."

Hardin, Hewitt, academy superintendent Adm. John F. Davidson and academy commandant Capt. James Minter rang the school's Japanese bell 13 times—in traditional fashion—signifying the number of points scored by the Middies in the football battle with the Black Knights.

Members of the varsity football team each rang the bell once. Members of the soccer and 150-pound football teams, victors over Army this season, joined the bell ringing ceremonies on the big "E" bell, taken from the aircraft carrier Enterprise.

Brewer Is Victor In Florida Golf

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A relentless Gary Brewer Jr. posted his fourth straight sub-par round Sunday and won his second straight PGA-sanctioned tournament with a 14-under par total 274 in the West Palm Beach Open.

Brewer took a five-stroke lead into Sunday's final round. Arnold Palmer came back with a 68 for second place at 278.

In addition to the $2,800 Brewer earned as top money, a golf ball manufacturer whom he represents handed him a $1,000 bonus check.

Palmer, now playing out of Miami, picked up a $1,900 paycheck on a great run after the leader.

Patriots Win, 28-24, Babe Parilli Stars

DENVER (UPI)—Quarterback Babe Parilli passed 51 yards for one touchdown and ran 7 yards for another to carry the Boston Patriots to a 28-24 American Football League victory over the Denver Broncos Sunday.

Denver halfback Al Frazier ran 55 yards with a punt, and returned a kickoff 90 yards for touchdowns. But his 90-yard romp came with only four seconds left in the game—too late to get Denver back in the game.

Hagerstown JC, Potomac State Clash Tonight

Catamounts, LaSalle Win Opening Games

Potomac State College will be shooting its second win of the season tonight when it plays Coach Irv Easterday's Hagerstown Junior College cagers in a Tri-State Junior College Conference game at 8 p. m. in Keyser.

Coach "Horse" Lough's Catamounts kicked off the lid Saturday night with a 76-74 victory over Altoona (Pa.) Campus.

Potomac will be opening defense of the conference title it won last year by coping nine out of ten games, including 90-59 and 110-59 decisions over the Night Hawks from the Hub City.

Since the schools opened basketball relations in 1958, Potomac has won seven out of eight games from HJC. Hagerstown's only win came in the Tri-State Tournament in 1958 in a 71-68 contest.

Gary Davis, of Cumberland, is among the players on the Hub City squad. Others include Bob O'Brien, Richie Hawkins, Jack Corderman, Nelson Ebersole, Steve Berger, Tom Neely, Len Worthington and Lawrence Potter.

In Saturday night's contest at Keyser, John Fahey's field goal with only seconds remaining enabled the Catamounts to open their schedule with a hard-earned victory.

Stanley Kolodziejki, a freshman, set up the score that broke a 74-74 deadlock when he stole the ball and passed to Fahey, who meshed the winning goal.

LaSalle Cops Opener

LaSalle's Explorers opened the season with a come-from-behind 71-64 triumph over the Eagles of Fort Ashby High School Saturday night in a Potomac Valley Conference game at SS. Peter and Paul gym before approximately 700 spectators.

Fort Ashby held a 56-50 lead with eight minutes remaining but took advantage of the visitors "freezing" tactics to pull the game out of the fire in the closing minutes of play.

Mike Long and John Sloan headed the Explorers' attack with 27 and 20 points, respectively. Bosley, Isner, Kerns and Newcomer with 14, 13, 12 and 11 tallies were the chief point-makers for the Eagles. Fort Ashby led at halftime, 36-32.

Frostburg State Teachers College suffered its second straight defeat of the season in bowing to Baltimore University at Baltimore, 73-66, while the West Virginia School for the Deaf opened with a 48-28 victory over the Alumni.

NFL To Draft Players Today

Patterson Is 10-Choice In Championship Bout With McNeeley

Canada Gets First Heavy Title Match

McNeeley Unbeaten, Liston and Westphal Open Doubleheader

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer
TORONTO (AP)—Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson opens his new twice-a-year fight program Monday night when he faces undefeated but lightly regarded Tom McNeeley of Arlington, Mass., in a 15-round title bout at Maple Leaf Gardens.

The 26-year-old New Yorker, trim and fast at 190 pounds, remained a 10-1 favorite Sunday to annihilate the crude, 24-year-old former Michigan State football tackle.

McNeeley, a 6-2, 200-pounder, will have the advantage at least in height, weight, and reach (79-71). When it comes to skill, power and experience, Patterson has everything going for him.

It will be a strange experience in one respect for the champion. He will be meeting someone other than Ingemar Johansson for the first time in nearly 2½ years. Fight At Philadelphia

Canada's first world heavyweight title match will be the second half of a novel closed circuit television doubleheader. In the opener (10 p.m., EST) of the electronic double bill, Sonny Liston, the reinstated No. 1 contender from Philadelphia, will oppose 10-1 underdog Albert Westphal of Hamburg, Germany, at Philadelphia's Convention Hall.

The intriguing attraction for the fans in both arenas and the theater-TV viewers will be a comparison of the skills and styles of Patterson and Liston even though they both are fighting low-rated opponents. The 210-pound Liston will be making a fighting pitch for a title while the proud Patterson will be out to look like a champion.

Championship Sports Inc., is promoting both fights. Teleprompter, Inc., is handling the telecast to about 150 theaters and arenas and more than 50 community television antenna systems in the United States and Canada. There will be blackouts of the theater-TV around Toronto and Philadelphia.

First Bout At 10 P. M.
Fans in the Toronto and Philadelphia arenas will see the fight in the other city on four-sided movie screens. If the 10 p.m. EST Liston-Westphal fight ends quickly, as expected, the title fight will start around 10:30 p.m. (EST). If it goes the distance the championship contest will go on around 11 p.m. (EST).

There will be no radio broadcast of the title fight in the United States where the bulk of the theaters are located.

Al Bolan, general manager of Championship Sports, Inc., looked for a crowd of 11,000 to 12,000 and a gate of between $150,000 and $200,000. Prices range from a few $5 general admissions to $50.

Patterson figures to collect about $300,000 on his 40 per cent of the gate and 50 per cent of the ancillary rights. McNeeley, for his 20 per cent of the gate and TV, radio, movies, could receive in the neighborhood of $125,000.

Won All His Fights
McNeeley, a pro since July 17, 1958, has won all 23 of his fights, 18 of them by knockouts.

These fights headline a busy week in boxing that also includes a bout between Gene Fullmer and welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba Saturday night in Las Vegas for Fullmer's National Boxing Association midweight title, and a non-title heavyweight match between partial light heavyweight champion Archie Moore and Canadian heavyweight champ Bob Cleroux Tuesday night.

Philadelphia Winner, 35-24

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The Philadelphia Eagles turned three pass interceptions into touchdowns and Tim Brown scored on a 66-yard punt return to defeat the Pittsburgh Steelers 35-24 Sunday in a National Football League game climaxed by a free-swinging donnybrook.

The win moved the Eagles into a first place tie in the Eastern Division with the New York Giants, who lost to Green Bay Sunday.

With less than a minute left, Pittsburgh defensive tackle Big Daddy Lipscomb poked Howard Keyes whom he outweighs by 45 pounds and Steeler defenders Joe Krupa and Brady Keys were mixing it with a swarm of Eagle players near the midfield stripe.

Hunters Kill 388 Deer In Allegany First Day

Total Is 36 Less Than 1960; Benson's 172-Pounder Biggest

Three hundred and eighty-eight deer fell before hunter's guns in Allegany county Saturday on the opening day of Maryland's 7-day season, according to Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden.

The total was 36 less than last year's record opening day kill of 424 bucks.

One hundred and ninety-three of the 388 killed on the first day of the season were bagged by Allegany countians.

Garrett county's kill of 256 was surprisingly low compared to the 377 bagged on the first day in 1960. Many hunters are in the camps back in the woods in Garrett and it is possible that a good number of the whitetails have not been checked there. Washington county's 259 on Saturday topped last year's opening day kill by nine.

The four checking stations in Allegany county reported kills in this county as follows: Maryland State Police barracks, LaVale, 115; Shipway's Inn, Green Ridge, 110; Hess' Service Station, Oldtown, 69, and Jake's Service Station, Westport, 28. Sixty-six bucks killed in Allegany were checked at Washington county stations.

Harry L. Benson, 548 Fairmont Avenue, got the biggest deer on opening day, a 172-pounder with 10 points, at Black Oak Ridge, near Rawlings.

Game wardens estimated there were between 17,000 and 18,000 hunters in the woods Saturday. They were checked from 16 counties of Maryland and seven other states — Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

LeClerc Boots Five Goals But Chicago Loses

24-Yard Conversion Wins For Detroit

CHICAGO (UPI)—Roger LeClerc tied a National Football League record with five field goals Sunday, but a 24-yard conversion by Jim Martin with 22 seconds left to play pulled the Detroit Lions to a 16-15 victory over the Chicago Bears.

With the clock running out, Lion quarterback Earl Morrill led a desperation drive toward the Bear goal.

A 36-yard pass to Jim Gibbons put the ball on the five. Another pass failed, but then Morrill hit Terry Barr in the end zone to tie the score.

The Lions needed Martin's one-point to win. His first kick was good, but the Lions were called for holding. Martin tried again from the 24 and succeeded for the winning point.

LeClerc, who had clicked on only three out of 13 field goal attempts previously this season turned out to be the only scoring threat Chicago had before 47,394 fans.

He kicked a 12-yard field goal in the first quarter, one from 30 yards out in the second from 12 and 32 yards in the third, and a 15-yarder in the final quarter.

His achievement tied the record set by Ernie Nevers of DuSable against Hartford on Nov. 28, 1926, and tied by Bob Waterfield of the Rams against Detroit Sept. 9, 1951.

Bills Turn Back Oakland, 26-21

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Buffalo Bills, led by some tremendous defensive work on the part of La Verne Torzcon, grounded out a 26-21 victory over Oakland in the mud of Candlestick Park Sunday and avenged an earlier defeat by the Raiders.

The game was strictly a basement battle with Oakland sinking deeper into the American Football League Western Division cellar as its season record dropped to 2-10. Buffalo, now 6-7, remained anchored in the Eastern Division basement.

Cousy Is Missing But Celtics Win

CINCINNATI (UPI)—The Boston Celtics, minus backcourt star Bob Cousy, humbled the Cincinnati Royals, 119-96, Sunday night in a National Basketball Association game.

Robertson, who finished with 28 points, took game honors while Russell scored 23 points and Heinsohn 17. Five other Celtics hit double figures.

Cousy, who suffered a knee injury in Chicago on Friday, did not make the trip.

Emerson Cops Title

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Former Wimbledon champion Neale Fraser suffered one of his worst defeats Sunday when he was blasted off the court by U.S. and Australian champion Roy Emerson in the West Australian men's singles final. The score was 6-2, 6-0, 6-2.

Academy Welcomes Middies

Celebration Marks Victory Over Army

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Amid shouts of "go, go, four in a row," the 3,800-man brigade of the U. S. Naval Academy welcomed home Sunday the Navy football team, fresh from a 13-7 victory over Army.

The team had won Navy's third straight victory in the time-honored, inter-service rivalry, and judging from the shouts of some 5,000 persons jammed into Teacup Court, the Middies want to make victory over Army a tradition.

"We went into the game rated even—recordwise, teamwork and other wise—but it didn't come out even," football captain John Hewitt told the crowd.

Football coach Wayne Hardin called the recent campaign, during which Navy rolled up a 7-3 record, "the greatest season Navy has ever had, when it started with nothing."

Hardin, Hewitt, academy superintendent Adm. John F. Davidson and academy commandant Capt. James Minter rang the school's Japanese bell 13 times—in traditional fashion—signifying the number of points scored by the Middies in the football battle with the Black Knights.

Brewer Is Victor In Florida Golf

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A relentless Gay Brewer Jr. posted his fourth straight sub-par round Sunday and won his second straight PGA-sanctioned tournament with a 14-under par total 274 in the West Palm Beach Open.

Brewer took a five-stroke lead into Sunday's final round. Arnold Palmer came back with a 68 for second place at 278.

In addition to the $2,800 Brewer earned as top money, a golf ball manufacturer whom he represents handed him a $1,000 bonus check.

Palmer, now playing out of Miami, picked up a $1,900 paycheck on a great run after the leader.

Patriots Win, 28-24, Babe Parilli Stars

DENVER (UPI)—Quarterback Babe Parilli passed 51 yards for one touchdown and ran 7 yards for another to carry the Boston Patriots to a 28-24 American Football League victory over the Denver Broncos Sunday.

Denver halfback Al Frazier ran 55 yards with a punt, and returned a kickoff 90 yards for touchdowns. But his 90-yard romp came with only four seconds left in the game—too late to get Denver back in the game.

Catamounts, LaSalle Win Opening Games

Potomac State College will be shooting for its second win of the season tonight when it plays Coach Irv Easterday's Hagerstown Junior College cagers in a Tri-State Junior College Conference game at 8 p. m., in Keyser.

Potomac will be opening defense of the conference title it won last year by coping nine out of ten games, including 90-59 and 110-59 decisions over the Night Hawks from the Hub City.

Cats Won 7 Out Of 8
Since the schools opened basketball relations in 1958, Potomac has won seven out of eight games from HJC. Hagerstown's only win came in the Tri-State Tournament in 1958 in a 71-68 contest.

Gary Davis, of Cumberland, is among the players on the Hub City squad. Others include Bob O'Brien, Richie Hawkins, Jack Corderman, Nelson Ebersole, Steve Berger, Tom Neely, Len Worthington and Lawrence Potter.

In Saturday night's contest at Keyser, John Fahey's field goal with only seconds remaining enabled the Catamounts to open their schedule with a hard-earned victory.

Stanley Kolodziejski, a freshman, set up the score that broke a 7-7 tie when he stole the ball and passed to Fahey, who meshed the winning goal.

LaSalle Cops Opener

LaSalle's Explorers opened the season with a come-from-behind 71-64 triumph over the Eagles of Fort Ashby High School Saturday night in a Potomac Valley Conference game at SS. Peter and Paul gym before approximately 700 spectators.

Fort Ashby held a 56-50 lead with eight minutes remaining but took advantage of the visitors "freezing" tactics to pull the game out of the fire in the closing minutes of play.

Mike Long and John Sloan headed the Explorers' attack with 27 and 20 points, respectively. Bosley, Isner, Kerns and Newcomer with 14, 13, 12 and 11 tallies were the chief point-makers for the Eagles. Fort Ashby led at halftime, 36-32.

Frostburg State Teachers College suffered its second straight defeat of the season in bowing to Baltimore University at Baltimore, 73-66, while the West Virginia State for the Deaf opened with a 48-28 victory over the Alumni.

NFL To Draft Players Today

CHICAGO (UPI)—The National Football League will pick its 280 prize plums from the college crop Monday in the annual player draft with the winless Washington Redskins getting the first choice from the grab bag.

The Skins, whose best performance this year was one tie in 12 games, were expected to choose Syracuse halfback Ernie Davis, the Heisman Trophy winner.

Colts' Garrison Finish Wins Over 'Frisco, 20-17

Units' 41-Yard Pass To Jim Orr Decides Thriller

By MALCOLM ALLEN
United Press International

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The Baltimore Colts, scoring on a dramatic 41-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Johnny Unitas to end Jimmy Orr with little more than a minute to play, came from behind Sunday to beat the San Francisco Forty-Niners, 20-17.

The victory gave Baltimore a National Football League record of 7-5 and boosted their hopes of a second place finish in the Western Division while San Francisco dropped to 6-5-1.

Orr Juggles Ball

The fashion in which the Colts seized victory had most of the capacity crowd of 57,641 standing and screaming as Orr did an end zone juggling act for the winning score.

The Colts scored first on a 1-yard plunge by Alex Hawkins in the initial quarter after Colt linebacker Jackie Burkett intercepted a John Brodie pass and carried it 23 yards to the Forty-Niner 37. Baltimore marched the 37 yards in 10 plays.

One-Year Pact Ratified By Luke Workers

Contract Becomes Effective Today

Members of Luke Local 676, United Papermakers and Paperworkers, AFL-CIO, yesterday afternoon ratified a one-year contract with the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Wilbur Johnson, president, said the pact was ratified by unanimous action at two well-attended membership meetings held in the union hall in Westernport.

He said the union negotiating committee unanimously recommended ratification and that union officials consider the pact a "good settlement."

The contract is scheduled to become effective today if ratified by some 3,600 members of the union at Luke, Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa.

Mr. Johnson said he was advised that Covington Local 675 has ratified the pact and that the Williamsburg local was acting yesterday.

Company and union negotiators reached an agreement on the pact at a meeting in Washington Thursday.

The pact, due to expire November 17, 1962, provides about nine cents an hour increase in wages and other benefits, including wage boosts ranging from four to five and one-half cents an hour.

Negotiating for the Luke local were Mr. Johnson, George Dick, first vice president; Charles Butler, second vice president; Edward Bryon Green, third vice president, and Elwood Broadwater, recording secretary.

N&W Reported Seeking Control Of WM Railway

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Norfolk and Western Railway Co. seeks to control the Western Maryland Railway either through merger or stock control, the Baltimore Sun reported Saturday night.

The newspaper said the N & W hopes to purchase the Western Maryland stock now held in trust for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and the stock purchased in recent months by the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway.

The B & O owns more than 42 per cent of Western Maryland's stock and C & O has purchased about 14 per cent this year, the article said.

The report said N & W President Stuart T. Saunders proposed the affiliation to the Baltimore Association of Commerce last week, and that he is expected to meet soon with C & O President Walter J. Tuohy.

N & W officers questioned that the railroad was considering such a plan, the newspaper said.

County Firemen To Air Central Alarm System

A committee of the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association which has been making a study of the possibility of a central alarm system will meet today at 7:30 p. m. at the LaVale Fire Hall.

The announcement of tonight's session was made yesterday afternoon at the regular meeting of the association held at the Goodwill Fire Company in Lonaconing.

The central alarm committee has received an estimate on cost of the proposed system and will make its report tonight. Cumberland has been selected as the location for the system, but it probably will be several years before it will be in operation, firemen said.

At the present time there are many different systems by which the various companies receive their alarms, and the central alarm setup would handle all fire calls. All departments in Allegany County are asked to send a representative to the meeting tonight.

In other action at yesterday's meeting, President David Powell, Frostburg, appointed a Fire Prevention committee to serve until next October 31. Members include Cromwell Zembower, LaVale, chairman; Harry Mallow Jr., Bowman's Addition; Felix Foote, Lonaconing; Jesse Jacobs, Frostburg, and George F. Comp Jr., Deer Park.

Mr. Zembower, of the firemen's training committee, also announced that five training classes will be held starting next month. The classes will be held on the second Monday of each month at the LaVale Fire Hall.

A letter of thanks was read to the association from William G. Barger, former Civil Defense chairman of Allegany County, for the testimonial dinner given for him last month by the association.

It also was announced yesterday that Accident and Frostburg had received new trucks last month and the association now has a total of 94 pieces of equipment in the two counties.

A display of posters on fire prevention was shown at the meeting by Felix Foote Sr., who was in charge of the program. The posters were made by students of Central Elementary School in Lonaconing in connection with the recent observance of National Fire Prevention Week.

Some 20 companies were present at the meeting which was concluded with a dinner served by the auxiliary of Goodwill Fire Company.

Registration Law Will Be Enforced

BALTIMORE (AP) — The U.S. Attorney for Maryland has declared he intends to enforce the law which requires officers of the Communist Party to register.

The federal prosecutor, Joseph D. Tydings, made the declaration Saturday after George A. Meyers, head of the party in Maryland, said he planned to ignore the requirement.

Deadline for the registration by officers of the party under the Internal Security Act of 1950 expired last Friday. The law, under a schedule established by U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, also requires members of the party to register by Dec. 20.

"We are in constant touch with the Justice Department," Tydings declared.

The internal security law provides fines up to $10,000 per day for the party itself. Members and officers are subject to the same fines and prison terms.

A Washington grand jury already has indicted the party in the district for having failed to meet the deadline.

Communists complain that they face prosecution under the enactment of 1950 if they fail to register and under the Smith Act of 1940 if they comply with the registration requirement. The Smith Act bans advocacy of violent overthrow of the government.

Thomas B. Finan, attorney general of Maryland and a past exalted ruler of the local lodge, delivered the eulogy, and Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, gave the principal address.

A special tableau entitled "Faith" was conducted, honoring 14 members of the local lodge who died during the past year.

Taking part in the tableau were James E. Yarnall, secretary of the lodge, and Gail Robinette, Deborah Zeller, Lisa Thomas, Kathleen Mackert and Kathy Lynn Wilson.

Deceased members in 1961 were Garland Paxton, John G. Snyder, Samuel N. Long, Edward A. Bayers, S. T. Brotemarkle, Charles L. Grosh, Harry K. Allison, James W. Stevenson, George C. Frey, Frank A. Stein, Wilbur V. Wilson, Philip M. Walker, John F. Trostle and Howard M. Spiker.

Glenwood Reel, exalted ruler, conducted the program and Edward O'Rourke, chaplain, gave the invocation and benediction.

The program also included several selections by the Sanctuary choir of Centre Street Methodist Church under the direction of Charles I. Sager. Mrs. Anne Gormer accompanied the choir on the piano.

Earl M. Nonnenmann was chairman of the memorial committee, assisted by George A. Caswell, Harry S. Tracy, John R. Goodrich, R. F. Eaton and Paul L. Mudge. Mr. Tracy also served as moderator of the tableau.

COMPLETES COURSE—Pvt. Frank A. Angellatta, who enlisted in the Army last July, recently completed a Carrier Repair Course at the Southeastern Signal School, Ft. Vets Get Dividend Payments

More than $29,500,000 in special dividend checks are in the process of being mailed to more than 400,000 Korea Conflict veterans who hold "W" type government insurance policies, Sam Weston, officer in charge of the local VA office, announced yesterday.

The mailing of these special dividend checks is expected to be completed early this month, Mr. Weston said.

An additional 200,000 Korea veterans who have not yet converted or exchanged their government "RS" insurance for the "W" type policies will also be eligible for special dividend checks if they convert or exchange before the time limit, September 14, 1963.

World War I and World War II veterans are not included in the present dividend distribution. They hold either United States Government Life Insurance (USGLI) or National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) and have already received dividend payments this year plus a special dividend payment.

The average dividend now being mailed to "W" insurance policyholders will be about $72, depending upon the amount of the policy and the length of time it has been in force, Mr. Weston said.

Each of the remaining "RS" policyholders will receive a letter from VA within the next few weeks explaining the advantages of changing to "W" type policies.

"RS" insurance was issued to Korean Conflict veterans discharged between April 25, 1951, and December 31, 1956, as five-term policies not eligible for dividends. The new type "W" policies, which are eligible for this dividend, were established in January 1959, and methods of conversion or exchange to either a permanent plan or a five year plan were announced at that time.

"W" insurance, Mr. Weston said, is non-participating and therefore not eligible for regular dividends. Under a bill signed into law September 13, 1961, the special dividend now being paid is being drawn from a surplus which was built up in the non-participating "RS" insurance fund. There will be no further payments.

In Maryland, Mr. Weston said, this special dividend will provide $469,050 to be divided among 6,519 holders of "W" type policies.

Both women sustained possible concussions and lacerations of the head. Mrs. Strickland also received a fractured left shoulder.

Tfc. Robert C. Dishong investigated the accident which occurred near the Allegany-Garrett County boundary line.

State Police said the car, operated by Mrs. Rollins, failed to negotiate a curve and hit an embankment.

Assisting Tfc. Dishong was Tfc. George C. Wachter and the Luke police, who were the first to arrive at the scene of the accident.

Tawes Blasted On Two Fronts By Opponents

Mahoney And Hume Attack Policies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. Tawes, attempting to gain re-election for a second term, was attacked on two fronts Saturday by his opponents in the primary campaign battle.

Baltimore County contractor and gubernatorial candidate George P. Mahoney levelled a blast at Tawes for administration policies on education, reapportionment and labor programs.

David Hume, another major opponent of the governor, made forays against the same programs as he spoke before the Teen-Age Democratic Club of Maryland in Baltimore Saturday.

"Pressure Group"
Mahoney criticized Tawes for the governor's attack on organized labor, which he labelled a "pressure group." Mahoney contended Tawes launched the attack when the AFL-CIO voiced its opposition to a proposed bill which would have tightened unemployment insurance benefits. Tawes supported the measure and it passed the 1961 Legislature. Petitions, however, have forced it to a referendum on the 1962 ballot.

Meanwhile, a fourth gubernatorial candidate was busily defending the governor.

J. Tyson Lee, who admitted he filed for office only to oppose Mahoney, said "the labor lobbyists and some labor leaders are far more bitterly attacked at times by members of their own unions' rank and file than they ever have been by Gov. Tawes."

Hume, in his speech before the teen-age Democrats, also attacked Tawes on savings and loan legislation and mental health facilities.

Savings and Loan
"You have heard about the savings and loan work of the governor," Hume said, "but what you have not been told is that the governor vetoed the legislation when it was first presented to him."

Hume referred to the savings and loan regulatory act approved during a special session of the General Assembly last June.

On the mental health issue, Hume quoted from a national magazine which "says that not one mental health hospital in Maryland could be accredited."

The Bryantown, Md., attorney also attacked Tawes for what he termed his support of legalized gambling in Southern Maryland. Hume contended that organized gambling (specifically slot machines) exists only through political "kick-backs."

Two Women Said 'Fair' After Crash
Two Washington, D. C., area women were reported in "fair" condition last night in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, where they were admitted Saturday night with injuries received in a one-car crash on Route 135 near Bloomington.

Both women sustained possible concussions and lacerations of the head. Mrs. Strickland also received a fractured left shoulder.

Tfc. Robert C. Dishong investigated the accident which occurred near the Allegany-Garrett County boundary line.

State Police said the car, operated by Mrs. Rollins, failed to negotiate a curve and hit an embankment.

Registration Law Will Be Enforced

BALTIMORE (AP) — The U.S. Attorney for Maryland has declared he intends to enforce the law which requires officers of the Communist Party to register.

The federal prosecutor, Joseph D. Tydings, made the declaration Saturday after George A. Meyers, head of the party in Maryland, said he planned to ignore the requirement.

Deadline for the registration by officers of the party under the Internal Security Act of 1950 expired last Friday. The law, under a schedule established by U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, also requires members of the party to register by Dec. 20.

"We are in constant touch with the Justice Department," Tydings declared.

The internal security law provides fines up to $10,000 per day for the party itself. Members and officers are subject to the same fines and prison terms.

A Washington grand jury already has indicted the party in the district for having failed to meet the deadline.

Communists complain that they face prosecution under the enactment of 1950 if they fail to register and under the Smith Act of 1940 if they comply with the registration requirement. The Smith Act bans advocacy of violent overthrow of the government.

Employers Seek Skilled People

The Maryland Department of Employment Security reports that employers are looking for critically scarce personnel while most job seekers are trying to find work in occupations where there is an ample labor supply.

A recent survey by the department revealed that employers want people with capability in such things as electronic data processing or possessing other technical skills while many of those looking for work are seeking production line or other kinds of jobs where there is a surplus in the number of experienced workers.

The department said employers can assist in reducing unemployment by placing all of their job orders with the State Employment Service.

Tawes Blasted On Two Fronts By Opponents

Mahoney And Hume Attack Policies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gov. Tawes, attempting to gain re-election for a second term, was attacked on two fronts Saturday by his opponents in the primary campaign battle.

Baltimore County contractor and gubernatorial candidate George P. Mahoney leveled a blast at Tawes for administration policies on education, reapportionment and labor programs.

David Hume, another major opponent of the governor, made forays against the same programs as he spoke before the Teen-Age Democratic Club of Maryland in Baltimore Saturday.

"Pressure Group"

Mahoney criticized Tawes for the governor's attack on organized labor, which he labelled a "pressure group." Mahoney contended Tawes launched the attack when the AFL-CIO voiced its opposition to a proposed bill which would have tightened unemployment insurance benefits. Tawes supported the measure and it passed the 1961 Legislature. Petitions, however, have forced it to a referendum on the 1962 ballot.

Meanwhile, a fourth gubernatorial candidate was busily defending the governor.

J. Tyson Lee, who admitted he filed for office only to oppose Mahoney, said "the labor lobbyists and some labor leaders are far more bitterly attacked at times by members of their own unions' rank and file than they ever have been by Gov. Tawes."

Hume, in his speech before the teen-age Democrats, also attacked Tawes on savings and loan legislation and mental health facilities.

Savings And Loan

"You have heard about the savings and loan work of the governor," Hume said, "but what you have not been told is that the governor vetoed the legislation when it was first presented to him."

Hume referred to the savings and loan regulatory act approved during a special session of the General Assembly last June.

On the mental health issue, Hume quoted from a national magazine which "says that not one mental health hospital in Maryland could be accredited."

The Bryntown, Md., attorney also attacked Tawes for what he termed his support of legalized gambling in Southern Maryland. Hume contended that organized gambling (specifically slot machines) exists only through political "kick-backs."

Two Women Said 'Fair' After Crash

Two Washington, D. C., area women were reported in "fair" condition last night in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, where they were admitted Saturday night with injuries received in a one-car crash on Route 135 near Bloomington.

Admitted to the hospital were Mrs. Kathryn Strickland, 40, District Heights, Md., and Mrs. Dorothy Rollins, 45, of Washington.

Both women sustained possible concussions and lacerations of the head. Mrs. Strickland also received a fractured left shoulder. Tfc. Robert C. Dishong investigated the accident which occurred near the Allegany-Garrett County boundary line.

State Police said the car, operated by Mrs. Rollins, failed to negotiate a curve and hit an embankment.

Assisting Tfc. Dishong was Tfc. George C. Wachter and the Luke police, who were the first to arrive at the scene of the accident.
